Dear DOJ

I do not come from your country. But I feel the way you have caved into Microsoft, effects me and indeed everybody that has to put up with Microsoft's blatant and deliberate quest to quell free choice and to keep its monopoly of a huge section of the IT market.

Your department is known around the world as one of the leaders in protecting the rights of the individual. Your settlement with Microsoft is a mockery of those ideals. The people you clam to protect are now powerless and frustrated. The awful truth is staring them in the face. The DOJ can be bought like any politician or police man. There is nobody left to protect them.
